Reading

This week in reading we... focused on the different parts of a book and where to start the story. We discussed covers, titles, authors, illustrators, title pages, and the spine. We used these features to decide if a book is a good fit for us. We also continued building our stamina in reading workshop.

Writing

This week in writing we... continued our story writing process by adding labels and details to our pieces. The students now have the steps Think, Picture, Say, Sketch, Label, and add Details to complete when they write a story. When they are done they can add to the words, add to the pictures, or start a new story. When you think you are done... you've just begun.

Math

This week in math we... began our math workshop. We have three rotations every day during math. The first is with me for direct instruction. After this the students go to either computers, or exploration. At these stations they explore to extend or remediate their lesson. They love the freedom of choice.
